LOCAL STORES HAVE FULL STOCKS OF BACK-TO-SCHOOL CLOTHES READY

Stores in this community now have full stocks of all back to school clothes at various price ranges. But, the demand will be heavy this year with the increase in school population, so shoppers should take advantage of the fresh merchandise offered in the local stores before stocks are depleted and the choice is limited.

Clothes for every school age member of the family now are being shown. Kindergarten, grade school, high school, college, and career minded young people all will find in stores right in this area, the newest trends in styles and fabrics suited to their particular age groups and needs.

Attention this fall is centered on school clothes. Merchants have been preparing for this season since early spring. They now have on hand clothes which will outfit school children from head to toe.

Stores here have turned the spotlight on the school child so that when he returns to school he will be dressed comfortably and in style with his classmates.

Enrollment has jumped considerably in all local schools. That means that many more children must be outfitted this year. To avoid the crowds and the last minute rush, shoppers have been cautioned to come early to make their selections.

LEISURELY SHOPPING. By visiting local stores now, shoppers can be assured of leisurely shopping, a choice of merchandise, correct fit, and information of the right clothes for each school age member of the family to wear back to school.

Now is the opportune time to take the children along to let them help pick out their own school togs. Stores will be uncrowded and mothers will find that shopping with their children, along to the tour is easier than leaving the children at home.

The clothes will be sure to fit if the child is there to try them on, and he will get the thrill of helping in the selection of them.

Both parents and children can participate in the fun of preparing the children to return to school. Local merchants have made choice selections of the latest fashions.

Both new styles and classic standbys are included in this year's stocks.

COMPLETE JOB Local stores are prepared to do the complete job of outfitting children with an eye to quality and value of merchandise. Clerks have been instructed in the latest data on new merchandise and are prepared to help parents and children in their selection of clothes.

All students want to look their best, be comfortable, and be in style with their classmates when they return to school. By visiting local stores early and taking advantage of their knowledge and supply of clothes, students will find that they can return to school completely confident that they are "putting their best foot forward".

PARENTS URGED TO PREPARE FOR SCHOOL OPENING

About one fifth of the nation's population—nearly 70,000 people—are scheduled to return to learning as their full-time occupations.

This figure, supplied by the U. S. Department of Labor, includes all the children and they show increases for every age group.

They include the beginners, more numerous than ever this year as a result of recent record birthrates, and the elementary graders whose vast numbers include the largest group of all.

They include the teen-age high school crowd of whom there are roughly ten percent more this year, and the college group whose numbers also are expected to increase by at least five percent this fall.

The anticipated expanding enrollments, reflected in records to be found right here in Campbell, accentuate the importance of heading the dead line for getting the children ready.

That dead line, but a few weeks away now—is the ringing of the school bells announcing the opening day of the new term.

Local educational authorities are at work putting the finishing touches on the community's school facilities so that they may be in the best possible shape to receive the children on the opening day.

Municipal authorities and civic organizations are perfecting plans for making sure that the hordes of youngsters who soon will be tripping to and fro from classes, are accorded the utmost in the way of protection against constantly mounting traffic hazards.

Stores have received their fresh stocks of new back to school fashions in clothing, supplies, and equipment that the children are going to need to be properly outfitted for the term, and have put them on display.

But the final responsibility for getting the youngsters ready to go back to school is parents themselves. And it is a two way job during this modern, complicated era in which we live.

It involves both psychological and material aspects of child rearing. One of the currently most important of the psychological phases concerns teen agers.

With temporary wage earning potential of high school students serving as a temptation, many of them have a disposition to give up learning for earning.

Fashions are playing a more important part in the school child's life. For one thing they are now launching a trend toward neatness and trimness, which will be welcomed by all parents. The correctly attired child is a self assured youngster, better fitted to progress in learning. Incorrectly attired, children suffer feelings of inferiority, loss of interest in school work because they don't belong.

SCHOOL DAYS REQUIRE RIGHT KIND OF CLOTHES

The end of summer vacation is usually marked by the din of the school bell for many of us! It means Junior is looking forward to the first day of school; Mary is bursting with pride because "she has come of age" . . . It's her first day in Junior High; and how grown-up Buster feels that he has made Senior High—until Jannie states that "no one has lived" until they experience that old feeling of heading back to college and the gang. To Mother and Dad, all this means only one thing . . . getting the kids outfitted and ready for that big moment in their lives—going back to school.

Children's clothing must be selected from a practical standpoint, because the wear and tear of everyday usage is terrific. The National Institute of Drycleaning states that it is just as important to consider drycleanability of certain items in the child's wardrobe as it is in selecting an adult wardrobe.

"Will it give good service in wear? Will it dryclean?" are important questions in selecting coats and jackets. Many boy's jackets have a water repellent finish, which makes it important to ask, "Is it necessary to have this finish replaced when the jacket is drycleaned?" And this is a good question to ask when you select your child's rainwear too.

There is a wide variety of fabrics to select from when it comes to skirts, jumpers and trousers. It's not generally bolt or go to seed. Fabric information that will guide you in your selection—information on colorfastness, and if the fabric has been processed for shrinkage control. It has been found that some sweaters made from the new "miracle fabrics" pill and ball-up in wear; some appear greyed after cleaning.

Local Pastor Attends Retreat

Harold H. Hare, pastor of the local Seventh-Day Adventist Church, returned today with his family after attendance at a Ministers' Retreat held on the Adventist Wawona Junior Campground. The meeting which started August 23rd, was called by R. C. Baker of San Jose, president of the Central California Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, and included all conference employees.

It was held to afford ministers and other gospel workers the opportunity of studying better pastoral and evangelical plans and methods.

SCOUT TROOP SEEKS HELP TO FIND FLAGS

St. Lucy's Scout Troop No. 29 held its first official meeting last Friday night, August 21. Only one thing was missing, according to Scout officials—the troop's insignia and American Flag.

Several years ago, officials said, when the former troop disbanded, the flags were left in the Scout Hall on Third Street. The hall has since been taken over by the Campbell Elementary School District.

Scout officials ask that anyone knowing the whereabouts of the Scout flags can help solve the "mystery of the missing flags" by calling the Campbell Press at FRanklin 8-6600 or St. Lucy's Church at FRanklin 8-2464.

UNION SCHOOL ENROLLMENT IS UNDER ESTIMATE

Union School superintendent Kenneth A. McDonnell, said this week that students from San Jose's Hacienda Gardens subdivision will attend Union district schools this year.

"While the needs of Union district pupils will not be sacrificed in order to care for Hacienda pupils," McDonnell said, "Union Schools could take in 50 children without difficulty."

Reason for this, McDonnell pointed out, was that subdivision homes within Union District boundaries have not proceeded as fast as expected early last spring.

Result is, that there will not be as many children entering Union schools this fall as originally expected. Developments now indicate about 950 students in Union district, he said.

Seven new classrooms at Parker school are set for completion September 14, as week before the opening of school, and progress indicates completion by that date.

Forty certified personnel have been hired. Approximately 26 pupils per grade teacher is the present teaching load. As many as four more could be added to classes without overburdening teachers or affecting the excellence of teaching procedures, McDonnell said.

What's Going on in Our Hospitals?

VIII--ABOUT COSTS

By LAWRENCE A. WILLIAMS, Science Writer

"Hey Doc. look at this." The husky patient showed his doctor an itemized bill. "It cost me $246 to stay in that hospital for five days. That's almost $50 a day. When I was there in 1943 my bill was only $138, and I stayed eleven days."

GENERAL HOSPITAL
1943	1953
Bed, 5 days at $18	11 days at $77
Operating Room	30 15.00
Anesthetic	30 5.00
Supplies	12 5.00
Anesthetic Administration	25 14.00
Drugs	27 4.50
Laboratory	17 7.50
X-Ray	45 15.00
Total	$246 $138.00

The doctor shook his head sympathetically. "Everything's gone up," he said. "What were you making ten years ago?"

"Journeyman plumbers were getting $1.50 an hour then. We get $3 now."

"If you're making twice as much now, is it unreasonable for the hospital charges to double?" Thousands of hospital patients daily take up the cry, "Why does it cost so much?"

SHORTER STAY Last year the average patient in a private or non-profit general hospital stayed six days and paid a total bill of $160. Ten years ago he stayed twice as long and paid $140.

In those ten years hospital payroll costs tripled — in some cases increased fourfold. This is due partly to wage raises and partly to shorter hours and more employees. Payrolls account for 65 percent of hospital expenses in California.

Drug costs have increased in all hospitals — in some as much as 600 percent in the past ten years — largely due to the new wonder drugs. Laboratory and X-ray costs have doubled.

Cost of building, equipment and supplies have skyrocketed. With all the rate increase of recent years, patient income has not caught up with expenses in general non-profit hospitals.

Hard-pressed administrators have adopted progressive methods of cost accounting, of materials handling, of labor-saving machinery, of employee relations, in an effort to stretch their dollars. Members of the Hospital Council of Southern California utilize its central purchasing service to get the price advantages of mass buying.

But increasing efficiency has little effect on the major costs of nursing care and medical services. Hospitals must get the money to provide the patient with individual attention, attractive meals, and the best of medical facilities or else go out of business. Rates have been raised — but in non-profit hospitals gifts and endowments have been needed to bridge the gap between income from patients and expenses.

SOCIALISM THREAT As gifts and endowments have declined under the tax pruning of large estates and incomes, some leaders have called on government to take over more of the burden of hospital care. But there are dangers in this course.

Hospitals and medicine have been among the first targets of socialists in every country. To socialize all hospitals would be to limit our privilege of choice and to stifle the competition which has kept American hospitals in the vanguard of progress.

But while critics of hospitals are viewing with alarm the rise in costs and rates, the American people have been doing something about it in a characteristic way which solves the problem without sacrificing individual choice, or institutional competition, variety and excellence.

INSURANCE PAYS This way is voluntary hospital insurance — Blue Cross, Blue Shield, and some 500 other insurance plans. They were practically unknown fifteen years ago. Today, 85,000,000 Americans are covered by hospital insurance, and the numbers increase monthly.

In California over half of our 11,250,000 residents have some form of hospital insurance. At the rate at which we are subscribing to voluntary insurance plans, it appears that most of our citizens will soon be covered.

Most hospitals agree that voluntary insurance is the only sound answer to the cost problem.

The FARMERS CORNER

by Allen F. Mather
Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

DECISION IN '54 The Nation's attention has been focused on 1954 as a year of decision for American agriculture. Events of next year will determine whether our national farm program is to be based on high-level support, flexible support, or some combination of these two. Every farmer in the country as well as every consumer has a deep, abiding interest in the final result of next year's deliberations.

Perhaps overlooked is the fact that farmers have already won a victory which may be of deeper significance than the ultimate character of whatever farm program is adopted. The Secretary of Agriculture has quite properly said, "To be sound, a farm program must be supported by three basic pillars: farmer approval, acceptability to the Congress, and sound economic principle."

CHANGED VIEWPOINT Note that he did not say, "To be sound, a farm program must be the one that the Department of Agriculture determines to be best for the farmer." Rather, the attitude of the Department of Agriculture under Secretary Benson is that the farmer himself should properly have a major voice in determining what program is the best.

The collision of diverse economic and social viewpoints in Congress eventually shapes our general national policies. Similarly, conflict between farmers believing in high-level or in flexible supports, between farmers producing for export and those wishing protection against imports, and between agricultural people who believe in a large degree of self-help and those who rely more upon governmental assistance finally determines the predominant thinking of the Nation's farm population. We may argue with any one of these viewpoints but the approach is a shining example of democracy at work.

CONGRESS Note, too, that the Secretary did not say, "To be sound, a farm program established by the Department must be rammed down the throat of Congress." Instead, it is recognized that Congress is the voice of the American people. While we all exercise our right to complain and even perhaps joke about our Congressmen, we all must admit that the decisions made by Congress during our history have assisted immeasurably in making us the world's most prosperous people. It is through our elected representatives that the will of the Nation is reflected in legislation.

The Secretary of Agriculture is to be highly commended for his obvious disavowal to establish legislative programs by administrative action. Our farmers have fought against government by rule and regulations in other governmental departments for so long that it is a great relief to see the Department of Agriculture publicly stating that it will not attempt to usurp the power of the legislation.

ECONOMICS Note also that the Secretary of Agriculture did not say, "To be sound, a farm program need give no consideration to economic principles." It is specifically recognized that our farm policy must be based on a firmer foundation than an economic Hindu rope trick. While abnormal economic conditions may for a short time permit, and may even on occasion require abandonment of enduring principles of economics, our long-term agricultural program cannot permanently rest on such uncertain foundations.

We must give our best efforts to this attempt by the Secretary to find the proper balance between "farmer approval, acceptability to the Congress, and sound economic principle."

CABBAGE-LETTUCE-CAULIFLOWER

FOR BUSHELS OF HEALTH— Nothing can surpass the reward of home produced vegetables when they are truly well grown and in correct supply with relation to the household size. Every well planned garden should include a nominal area to handle the growing of some of the varieties of vegetables enjoyed by members of the household.

The elements of success in growing vegetables are good soil, adequate watering, rigid pest control, correct varieties for the seasons and good healthy transplants. As this is the season for the cabbage family to be grown, the California Bedding Plant Advisory Board suggests setting out a few plants of cabbage, broccoli, brussels sprouts, cauliflower and lettuce to taste the thrill of successfully home grown vegetables. Seed sown at this late date may yield a crop, but will generally bolt or go to seed. Many other vegetables are successfully grown from seed now such as beets, carrots, radishes and onions, but for safety use flat grown transplants of the cabbage and lettuce family. Water your plants by furrow irrigation rather than by sprinkling. Dust or spray for cabbage worm and aphids. Fertilize at least twice during the growing period and pick the matured crop as soon as ready. In doing these things you will be following the practice of the successful truck garden operator.

Postmaster Warns Against Leaving Mail Overnight

Postmaster Ira H. Grim has warned patrons of the Campbell Post Office not to leave mail in their Rural Delivery or City Mounted Delivery mail boxes over night.

Patrons often place outgoing mail in their mail boxes with flag raised in the late afternoon or evening for Carriers to pick up the following day. Thieves travel the mail routes in automobiles and on bicycles looking for mail boxes with flag raised as this is a signal to the carrier the mail box contains outgoing mail.

Grim said letters should never contain cash or endorsed checks.

The postmaster urgently requests that anyone seeing a mail box molested or pilfered to immediately notify the Postmaster or the Sheriff's office.

American Business Behind The Scenes

by Reynolds Knight

CLEARING FOR ACTION

Dealers provide the means at the customer's level to get and keep an automobile line before the prospect's eye, and Edgar Kaiser has just made a striking move to do just that for his three automobiles.

A new organization, Kaiser-Willys Sales Division, will hereafter distribute the passenger cars and commercial vehicles built by both Kaiser Motors Corp. and Willys Motors, Inc. In passenger cars this means the Henry J, the Aero Willys and the Kaiser. In commercial vehicles it includes Willys trucks, station wagons, the world-famous Jeep and special purpose vehicles.

Roy Abernathy, heading the new unit as vice president in charge of sales, said he expected this aggressive program to "build a great new automotive company that will advance in the industry at a more rapid rate, merchandise modern quality automotive products, and give our dealer organization a greater percentage of the market."

The dealer organization will now number more than 4,000 outlets to serve more than 2,000,000 current owners of Kaiser and Willys vehicles.

CONGRESS CASUALTIES—Bills of interest to small business men and consumers, which have been just squeezed to death in Congress' rush for adjournments, include the postal rate increase measure and two major sections of the customs simplification bill.

Costs of shipping parcels would have gone higher under the postal rate bill, and magazine subscription costs would have risen. Under the customs bill as now trimmed, the possibility of buying small articles by mail.

As a taxpayer, the businessman may also rejoice in the reduction of $1 billion in foreign aid, although the Administration calls this false economy.

Senator Beall of Maryland wants it made impossible to swap government bonds at par for government-guaranteed mortgages. . . The last two of the Big Four cigarette makers will enter the filter-tip field soon. . . An ICC examiner would dismiss government claims to $2 billion in alleged wartime freight overcharges.

EW YORK, Aug. 3—This will not be another solemn warning against dancing in the streets because a Korean armistice has been signed. The ordinary American seems to have a sober and realistic understanding of this event.

While Korean truce is unlikely to shift the balance from inflation to deflation, the balance is an uneasy one, and the weights on either side are enormous:

INFLATIONARY: The $9.4 billion federal deficit is the largest in history. The national debt crowds the limit, and either a rise in the ceiling of the spectacle of government checks bouncing will frighten the financial community. Reserve requirements have been cut to make more commercial credit available. Steel and oil are more costly. The cost of living edges upward. Wage raises are generous. Rents will rise. Employment is full or over-full.

DEFLATIONARY: Food and fiber prices are lower, carrying farm land prices down with them. Interest rates are higher. Defense spending is being stretched out, and will be more so. Reviving foreign producers fight for world trade. Inventories are high, and prudent industrial purchasers have begun shortening commitments.

STUBBORN SHORTAGE—Ever wonder what happened to all those shortages of raw materials that came to notice with the Korean

R. Perez Concert At Villa Montalvo

by Theodore Rosenfeld

Miss Rachael Marie Perez of San Jose presented a program of piano works in recital at Villa Montalvo Sunday afternoon.

Obviously a serious, youthful, talented musician, Miss Perez, none-the-less, at the beginning of her concert, appeared to be very tense, especially during the first half of the Chromatic Fantasia and Fugue by Bach where she apparently was having difficulty relaxing. This may have been attributed to the restlessness of the children in the audience. Her tension appeared to let up considerably however, during the Fugue wherein her performance shone.

Miss Perez again appeared uneasy in the relatively simple Mozart sonata in C Major.

When relaxed into her normal stride, Miss Perez gives all the earmarks of a competent pianist.

Following the aforementioned works Miss Perez presented in succession the following: Sonata in C Minor, op 29 No. 4, by Prokiefier, Ballade in A Flat, opus 47, Chopin, and works by Albeniz; Cadiz and Triana, both of which were played very satisfactorily.

The early part of the Chopin Ballade appeared to be a bit too slow and in need of greater tonal contrasts in the repeating figures.

With technique, mellowing and guidance in the interpretative side of piano music by an outstanding musician—pianist—teacher, Miss Perez should be able to reach greater heights in concert work.

The lone exception is nickel. This vital alloying element is added to other metals to make them harder, stronger and tougher, and to increase resistance to corrosion and high temperatures. The U. Priorities and allocations continue on its use and distribution, so that the needs of the arms and atomic energy can be met.

Montalvo To Show Atkins Pottery

The Montalvo foundation is presenting an exhibition of pottery and hand silk-screened prints by Ellen Atkins of Danville, California. Opening Sunday, August 30th, the exhibition in the Gallery of the Villa Montalvo will be open to the public daily from ten A. M. to five P. M.

Included in the exhibition are pieces of stoneware and glass of an unusually subtle and sensitive design and color. Miss Atkins uses earth colors and has made a specialty of the native grasses and herbs in her designs. Her glazes are the result of her own original formulas and techniques. In her workshop—City House—at Danville in the San Ramon Valley of California all pieces are wheel thrown or hand built, and all stone ware is fired to 2300° F.

Born in Berkeley, California, and a graduate of the University of California with a degree in Fine Arts, Ellen Atkins did graduate work at the California College of Arts and Crafts, becoming student assistant and later the first California apprentice to the famous Marguerite Wildenhain with whom she worked both at the CCAC and Pond Farm.

Her specialized work toward a Masters Degree at New York State College of Ceramics at Alfred University, Alfred, New York was interrupted by her service in the WACS in the U. S., New Guinea and Manila.

Miss Atkins' work has been exhibited in New York and in the Bay Area where she has received special awards. Gumps of S. F. feature her work, especially the Herb and Grass Salad Sets. Contemporary Arts of Berkeley, California are showing individual pieces of the Atkins pottery.

LAW IN ACTION

PRE-REQUISITES OF A CONTRACT

Did you ever think what a part contracts play in your life? Even a bus ticket involves a contract. Your commuter's ticket states the "conditions" of the contract on the back. They refer you to tariff regulations.

The four pre-requisites of a contract are:

- (1) Parties who can make a contract.
- (2) Consent of the parties.
- (3) A lawful objective.
- (4) A sufficient "consideration."

Parties Who Can Make A Contract

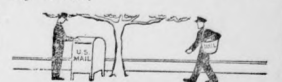

In the main, with certain exceptions, any person can make a contract. For minors, persons of unsound mind, criminals or the like, the law makes special provisions.

Consent of The Parties

You have "consent" when one party makes a concrete offer, and the other accepts it unconditionally.

Confusion may arise when the parties do business by letter. Suppose you write me, offering your car on given terms. I accept by letter, addressing the envelope properly, and mailing it.

The contract has been made, even though the letter goes astray. Because you made the offer by mail you know that I might accept it by mail. It was your duty to check and see if I had accepted if you did not get my letter.

Suppose you want to take back your offer? If you mail your revocation before I accept, there is no consent and no contract. But if I mail my acceptance first, we have mutual consent and a contract.

You cannot, of course, take back your offer where I pay you for an option for a certain time. We cannot make valid contracts which have an illegal purpose. If what is paid as consideration is illegal the contract is void. Examples: Contracts cannot specify a higher than legal rate of interest, cannot be made in restraint of trade, involve unfair trade practices, deal with betting, or aim to defraud.

VOLUNTEERS WELCOMED BY SCHOOL AUTHORITIES IN PARENT PARTICIPATION

Schools are finding it very helpful to have parents volunteer for jobs which the school staff hasn't time to handle. The mother who offers to work in the school library a few hours a week or to help in the cafeteria, and the father who is willing to assist building scenery for the school play, may be taking a load of an already overworked school staff.

NEW GRAMMAR SCHOOL PRINCIPALS SELECTED FOR COMING SCHOOL YEAR

New principals have been selected and assigned for the Campbell Union School District for the coming year, William C. Henley, District Superintendent, said recently. Mrs. Ann Meredier, Vice principal of the Grammar School will be assigned as principal of the new Cherry Lane School. New Hamilton School will have as its principal Wayne Fontes of Sequel, formerly of Greenfield and Freedom, and Jack Fisher of Palo Alto will be the new principal of the San Tomas School. Fisher was formerly a supervisor in the superintendent's office of Tehama County.

Cherry Lane school soon to be constructed on Giles Way is expected to be ready for occupancy about Christmas time, 1953, Henley said. Until completed Cherry Lane school pupils will attend classes in the Grammar School building, according to the superintendent.

Hamilton School, presently under construction is expected to be completed sometime in July. School officials said they would be interested to see this school in operation since it combines two types of construction. One part is built of average reasonably expensive, solid construction materials and the other is an experiment in low cost school building.

HOSPITAL BID FOR STATE FUNDS TURNED DOWN

State Department of Public Health in Los Angeles last Friday turned down West Valley Hospital district bid of $500,000 state and federal money.

Board member Harry S. Whiteman, local representative, said the district was now in 24th place on the priority list of more than 100. Three years ago, the district was in 16th place, he said.

Reason for the drop, Whiteman said, "is the number of applications from areas completely without hospital service, received by the advisory council." Whiteman said he had learned from state officials that hospital bed needs in the San Jose area had been met to the extent of 55 per cent. He said the advisory council reported that $4½ million in aid it had to allocate this year was only one-fiftieth of the total hospital needs construction of the state.

Robert Carel, of 571 Emory Street, Deputy State Fire Marshal is in charge of the newly opened four county fire headquarters in Firehouse No. Two at 2975 Lafayette Street, San Jose.

Children Need To Get Away From Their Parents; And Parents Need To Get Away From Children

Children need to get away from their parents and parents from their children. At school boys and girls learn how to get along with others, to compete without being too competitive, to hold their own, to concentrate and to learn.

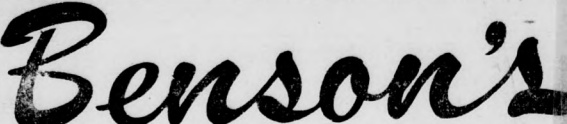

It is a well known fact that mothers are apt to feel a twinge of jealousy about teachers. Here parents, too, have an adjustment to make. They can't always be the only wonderful people in the world, and it is desirable that youngsters be friendly and cooperative with other adults.

It is good for them to meet someone like teacher. She is a new and very important person on their horizon. For the child just starting to school it is quite an adjustment to accept the authority of teacher, when previously he has known only the authority of mother and dad.

Parents can help the child to like teacher and to accept her not only as a mentor, but as a friend. And it is important that they do so.

Welcome teacher into their lives and into your own home. You may not always like what teacher does, but try to understand her problems. While you have two or three children,
